Bateleur Safari Camp Timbavati Private Nature Reserve

©Bateleur Safari Camp

Timbavati Private Reserve borders Kruger so you have the advantage of wildlife viewing on private land as well as an impressive variety of species. This is a great place to try a bush walk guided by a skilled tracker and ranger, suitably armed. On foot, your senses snap to attention for a focused look at how this ecosystem works. Because the camp overlooks a waterhole, you're steeped in the sounds and sights of the African bush even during dinner (each one exceptional) and after, around the boma, under the stars.

Sabi Sands

Because Sabi Sands is blessed with many deep waterholes, it offers unparalleled game viewing possibilities. Because it's a private reserve, your guide can take you off road to follow that elusive leopard you're keen to observe. Because it shares an unfenced border with Kruger, species density is impressive. And everyone loves this lodge. You may find it hard to leave the luxe comfort of your private suite (with plunge pool). But there's so much else to enjoy, including wildlife lectures, bush dinners and stories around the fire.

Your Travel Matters

Part of Deeper Africa's mission is giving back to the land and people of Africa. When you travel with us, your safari dollar contributes to exciting work and opens up experiences you may want to share. Here's how it works:

Bateleur Safari Camp

During guided bush walks you'll learn about the lodge's conservation work protecting this special place. Camp owner Andreas Liebenberg has twice been honored with the Timbavati Nature Reserve's conservation award for most eco-sensitive land owner.

Timbavati Bush School teaches conservation and environmental awareness to students from 35 surrounding schools. They emphasize local efforts and programs to protect the ecosystem and the wildlife it supports.

Lion Sands Tinga Lodge Henna Preschool

If happy busy toddlers melt your heart, be sure to visit this school, named after one of the Indunas (chiefs) in the area who always said "Henna!" when greeting his people. Henna serves 114 local children ages 2 to 5. And it's a Pack for a Purpose destination. So you can bring some school supplies, art supplies, toys or games to donate. Ask for details.
