With its rich mix of wildlife and incredible ecosystem diversity, Uganda is not to be missed. Explore it all, including a multitude of primates—gorillas, chimpanzees, vervets, colobus monkeys and baboons. Kibale National Park, alone, contains 13 distinct species while the otherworldly Bwindi Impenetrable Forest is home to the iconic “gorillas in the mist.” Queen Elizabeth and Lake Mburo National Parks contain traditional safari sightings of elephants, lions, leopards and many others.

Enjoy meeting local Ugandans on community village walks, traditional lunches and while making bean-to-bar chocolate. Take in the unique beauty of the best of Uganda’s wild places, accompanied by one of our expert Ugandan guides throughout your safari.

Uganda, home to over 5,000 chimpanzees, is one of the most important countries in Africa for conservation of these captivating creatures.

Kibale Forest is considered the premiere destination to view chimps in East Africa due to having the largest and most dense population in Uganda. Following close in numbers, Budongo Forest in Muchison Falls National Park also boasts large populations of chimps in Uganda, as well as East Africa's largest mahogany forest. In Queen Elizabeth National Park, Kyambura Gorge is a remote, hidden gem for chimpanzee trekking.

More than 1,500 chimps live in Kibale Forest—Uganda's highest concentration.

Chimp tracking begins early in Kibale Forest. Chimps move frequently, so prepare to move with them. Your ranger will lead you through the forest underbrush, listening for their telltale hoots and screeches. Take in the beautiful scenery and sounds of birds, insects and monkeys in the branches. It can take time to find the chimps. The thrill of seeing a face much like your own staring back at you couldn't be more worth it. Observe and follow them as they feed, play, groom and go about their daily activities.

DAYS 4 & 5

Ishasha Wilderness Camp

Queen Elizabeth National Park

Depart Kibale for Queen Elizabeth National Park, Uganda's best location for traditional wildlife viewing. Its diverse ecosystems include sprawling savannas, crater lakes, winding water channels and dense forest.

Cruise the Kazinga Channel, a 20 mile (32 km) waterway linking Lakes Edward and George and spot plentiful wildlife stopping by for a drink, including the largest concentration of hippo in the world. Look for famous tree-climbing lions in fig trees on the remote Ishasha plains and enjoy watching hippos near the Ishasha River.

After struggling with poaching, populations of kob, buffalo, bushbuck, waterbuck, elephant, giant forest hog and warthog are recovering here.

Head to otherworldly Bwindi Impenetrable Forest. Shrouded in mist, Bwindi appears suspended in the clouds. This ancient rainforest and designated UNESCO World Heritage site is one of Africa’s most biologically diverse areas.

In the morning, learn about gorilla trekking etiquette at park headquarters before Ugandan park guides lead you into the forest. Trekking lasts between one and five hours. Along the way, listen and look for Bwindi’s more than 350 bird species and a variety of other primates before the excitement of seeing the first gorilla. Habituated by researchers, gorillas are accustomed to humans, but still curious. Watch them eat, groom and interact with one another just a few feet away.

Gorillas share at least 97% of our DNA.

Bwindi Impenetrable Forest is home to at least 90 mammal species, including 11 different primates and half of the world’s mountain gorillas.

Gorilla Doctors

Critically endangered mountain gorillas are the only great apes whose wild populations are increasing, largely due to the work of Gorilla Doctors and the Mountain Gorilla Veterinary Project.

Gorilla Doctors provides medical care to ill and injured gorillas in Uganda's Bwindi Impenetrable Forest, Rwanda's Parc National des Volcans and the DRC's Virunga National Park. Veterinarians, rangers, guides and conservationists monitor each gorilla's health, note any developing problems and intervene in emergencies. Gorilla Doctors owns its own vet school.

This work has helped save the species from extinction and even contributed to a baby boom. We're happy to arrange a meeting with Gorilla Doctors for you after you trek, with the option to privately join the doctors on their rounds. This conservation success story demonstrates how your visit can change the future of an endangered species for the better.

Gorilla Porter Program

Porters are available to carry your daypack, water, and lunch. You may not feel you need one, but we recommend hiring a porter anyway.

$20 cost

$5 Gratuity recommendation

Porters are typically young people without many opportunities. They need work. They only get the opportunity to porter once a month. Typically, their other days are spent working on the family subsistence farm. That's essential work, but it doesn't help them with the cash and the learning they get from helping international guests. A porter doesn't just carry your gear. Like any good caddy, the porter gives you pro tips and shares the kind of local lore that will enlighten your adventure. They are familiar with the trails, terrain, and the condition of the forests. Hiring a porter is so much more than just lightening your load. It's important that all community members benefit from gorilla conservation through work and learning opportunities. They will make a hard trek possible by pulling and pushing you through; a much needed hand.

The porter program is one of the initiatives that the gorilla rangers developed to build community support for mountain gorilla protection. The survival of gorillas and the welfare of local communities are inextricably linked. Support the people, as well as the primates. The money porters earn is one of the direct benefits of tourism in communities.

Drive east through the beautiful agricultural countryside toward Lake Mbuo National Park. Look for herds of Ankole cattle—famous for their long horns. They are raised by the Banyankore people.

Lake Mbuo National Park contains savannas, acacia woodlands, swamplands and lakes and is the only reserve in Uganda with impalas. Hippos are abundant and there are at least 350 recorded bird species here. Mhingo Lodge is set in a series of rugged hills on the west side of the park with majestic views of Lake Mbuo and the undulating grassy valleys that hold wonderful wildlife viewing opportunities.
