Zanzibar: A Foodie Adventure

DAY-BY-DAY ITINERARY

Swahili coast safari

Indulge in the exotic flavors of local spices, fresh-caught seafood and tropical fruit on the Swahili island of Zanzibar. A mix of Indian, Arab and African culinary influences, Zanzibar is known as the “Spice Island” and is famous for its white sandy beaches and turquoise water, in addition to its delicious cuisine. Enjoy tuna, marlin, lobster, prawns, calamari and octopus fresh from the sea, locally-grown Robusta coffee and ripe, sweet sun-kissed fruit while discovering the unique Swahili culture. This is culinary tourism at its best.

DAY 4

Kisiwa House

Stone Town, Zanzibar

Continue driving east to Stone Town, a UNESCO World Heritage site, and the seat of Zanzibari and Swahili civilization. Zanzibar was once nestled in the middle of an ancient mercantile civilization that included independent coastal and island city states stretching from the Somali coast to the Zambezi river. For centuries merchant vessels arrived from India, Arabia, Persia, China, Japan, and Russia. Coastal Africans fused their traditions with Arab customs until the “Swahili” became a distinct race with their own language, cuisine, rulers, art, and decoration.

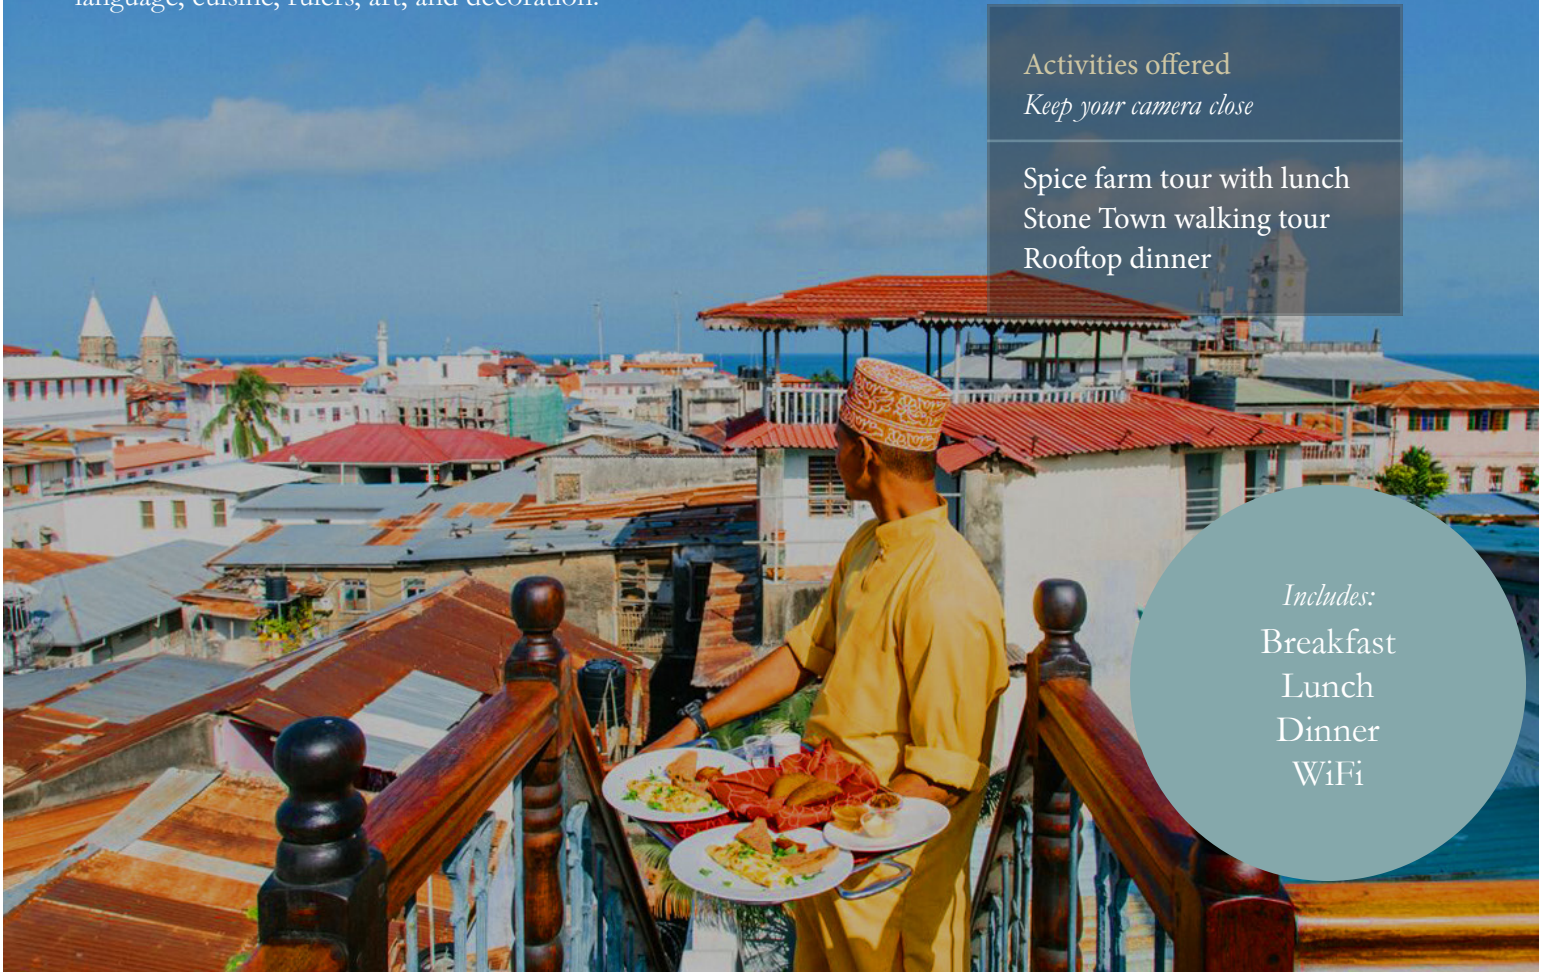

Your Deeper Africa guide will take you on a walking tour of Stone Town. Stone Town is a magical labyrinth of narrow twisting streets and bustling bazaars. Bazaar stalls and street vendors can be found in all but the quietest spots. There are fresh vegetables for sale, baskets of tropical fruits, and an amazing seafood market with some exotic catches. The houses are whitewashed stucco rising up unevenly three to four stories above the street. Lights and shadows dance across the alleys.

Traditional Zanzibarian dinner

On Zanzibar, spices are as important to the economy and culture as they were a thousand years ago. As you walk through the farm, savor the fresh aromas and vibrant colors of classic spices and fruits you know and love. You might even make some new discoveries. The plantation owner will join you on a walk through the farm. Sample spices such as cinnamon, vanilla, coriander and tamarind. Enjoy a farm-to-table lunch cooked with foods and spices from the plantation. That evening, dine on the roof of Emerson on Hurumzi. Enjoy a Zanzibari dinner and learn more about island traditions.
