

DEEPER AFRICA

Unforgettable

Every night since I've been home, I've dreamed of Africa, and that has never happened to me before. It has remained vividly in my subconscious. This is an experience that has impacted me in ways I've never been touched before. I would go again in a heartbeat.

Something about this vast ancient landscape gets into your blood and colors your dreams. Sinking off to sleep, your restless city mind slips away, giving back vivid images. Of wildebeest moving in a slow pulse across broad plains, and zebra weaving a canvas of kinetic stripes. Of morning skies filled with flamingos. Elephants lazing by the water's edge, shepherding wayward calves. And lions. You never forget your first lion—the way he looked you right in the eye, plumbing the depths of your soul.

I was extremely impressed with the skill, experience and knowledge of my Deeper Africa guide. He was able to anticipate the movements of the animals and approach them in a non-threatening manner allowing us to get far closer to wildlife than other vehicles. In many cases we were two feet from animals and alone with them for prolonged periods. Time and time again my guide proved his unique skills, resulting in an unbelievable wildlife viewing experience throughout the trip.

walk into the real Africa

EXPLORER SAFARIS are for the curious, energetic safari travelers open to discovery. They are an adventure in contrast: one night you are dining by candlelight in an exquisite lodge; another evening dinner is served by the campfire of a well staffed camp. One day you explore by Land Cruiser for thrilling, whisker close encounters with the “Big Five.” Another day finds you strolling in the honey sweet air, with an attentive band of tribesmen who explain the subtle meanings of tracks, bird songs, and infinite other discoveries only an explorer can find.

Gorilla Doctors is a real conservation success story. The organization proves that our presence and your visit can change the future of an endangered species. Gorilla Doctors provides veterinary treatment to gorillas in Bwindi Impenetrable Forest (Uganda) and Parc' Nationales des Volcans (Rwanda). Vets, rangers, guides, and other wildlife conservationists monitor the health of each gorilla. They intervene in emergency situations, observe daily interactions, and note health problems as they develop. Triage is done on site, with great fanfare to distract distraught family members. Gorilla Doctors' motto: Saving a Species One Gorilla at a Time. Gorilla Doctors welcomes your support.

I'll never forget the tented camp on the hillside in the Serengeti. You could see for miles, the trees like an umbrella across the base of the hill. The sun rose just outside the door of our tent. The zebras were braying. And I was stunned by the enormity of the space, the sensation of being suspended deep in nature.

I tell my friends, Africa is such a different place! There are so many animals. You can't even imagine unless you go there. The best part of the trip, for me, was visiting the village and the school with the Mwangaza Project. The kids and their parents were so friendly and the kids really cared about learning.

Namibia supports a unique population of desert-adapted lions that survive in the harsh Namib Desert. The Desert Lion Conservation Project has been studying and monitoring these lions since 1998. As the lion population has increased they range closer to human settlement killing livestock. Farmers have often responded by shooting or poisoning the lions to protect their livelihood. These human-lion conflicts are the biggest threat to these desert lions. The Desert Lion Conservation Project works tirelessly in local communities developing strategies for managing these human-wildlife conflicts.

Deeper Africa guests are able to meet with Dr. Stander to learn more about saving Namibia's desert-adapted lions.

Save the Rhino Trust nurtures a unique rhino program in northwest Namibia. The approach is simple, yet effective: offer poachers a more secure livelihood as wildlife guards. Community rangers regularly patrol the black rhino habitat, as well as educate community members on the value of the rhinos to the economic welfare of the people. This is the only desert-specific population of black rhino on earth. Deeper Africa guests can trek black rhinos on foot with the community guides. After 30 years of work by Save the Rhino Trust, rhino numbers have increased five-fold and the region is home to the largest concentration of black rhino surviving on land that has no conservation status.

GORILLA AND CHIMPANZEE SAFARIS take you into the dense forests of the Virunga Mountains. Spanning Rwanda and Uganda, they protect the last Mountain Gorillas left on the planet. Trekking to see the gorillas brings you so close to them that you can hear the gorillas vocalize, watch the mothers coddle their young, and observe the antics of the youngsters, never forgetting that the Silverback is in charge! If your preference is chimpanzees, then Uganda and Tanzania deliver. Gombe Stream or Mahale in Tanzania and Kibale Forest or Chambura Gorge in Uganda offer excellent viewing.

BWINDI COMMUNITY HOSPITAL

Visit the Bwindi Community Hospital, located on the edge of Bwindi Impenetrable Forest. Established in 2003 to provide needed health care to the Batwa pygmies, the hospital has grown from an outreach clinic under a tree to a 112-bed hospital providing quality care to thousands each month. The clinic welcomes you as a guest, where you can meet clinic workers and members of the community, tour the facility, and learn more about rural health issues in Uganda. Deeper Africa makes a charitable donation on a guest's behalf for use by the clinic as needed. Many of our guests continue to support the clinic through their "Friends" of the Bwindi Community Hospital program.

Sea Sense works closely with six Swahili Coast communities in Tanzania to protect endangered marine species such as sea turtles, whales, dolphins, and whale sharks. Disturbing levels of sea turtle slaughter and nest poaching led to Sea Sense stepping forward and developing a community based sea turtle nest monitoring and protection program. Educational campaigns targeted village leaders, local fishermen, and school children. Now 230 nests have been protected and over 10,000 sea turtle hatchings safely returned to the sea. Deeper Africa guests can set their Swahili Coast adventures to view a sea turtle hatching, watch a whale migration, or swim with the whale sharks.

A CLOSER LOOK.

A DEEPER UNDERSTANDING OF AN ASTONISHING LANDSCAPE.

At Deeper Africa, we are fortunate to welcome our guests to special places in Africa. Places where the human footprint is minimized and you can experience true wilderness. Places where your soul can sing.

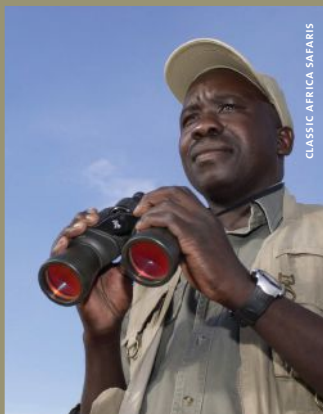

We strive to have your visit be a positive force for conservation and preservation of traditional African cultures. This ethic involves some simple principles.

- We deliver the best wildlife viewing on the planet. Our guides are expert naturalists who give our guests up-close sightings and a unique perspective on nature.
- We partner with small camps and lodges that allow you to experience genuine African hospitality, while enjoying great cuisine. Our camps minimize their impact on the environment by using solar for electricity, reduce their use of plastics and other hard to recycle items, and are always seeking creative ways to lighten the human load on the ecosystem.
- Our operations invest in local people by training a new generation of guides, conservationists, as well as business men and women. All of our staff are trained to international standards of guiding and hospitality.
- We focus our travel adventures in relatively few areas, so we are able to develop local relationships that provide our guests access to less traveled corners. Our guests enjoy lore, music, stories, and customs that are not often shared with the typical tourist.
- We endeavor to foster conservation by building an economic base that supports local employment, shares the benefits of tourism with local communities, and ensures that wild places are protected profitably.

TRAVEL ETHICALLY AND BE A PART OF AFRICA'S FUTURE.
